Westmin to drill 30 wells in 1988

Westmin Resources will drill 30 new heavy oil wells in 1988, and up to 105 more during the next 5 years, Heavy Oil Vice President Wayne Watmough told the Elk Point Surface Rights Association at their annual meeting last Wednesday. He foresees continued development and sustained activity, but none of the "frantic expansion" of the 1984 boom. The oil industry is "very price sensitive," Watmough noted, "If the price drops, the rigs go home."

Watmough said that the first discovery well drilled by his company in 1978 was in the search for shallow deposits of natural gas, but heavy oil was discovered instead. From that time, drilling in the area continued, reaching a peak of 90 new wells in 1984, for a total of 165 wells.

In 1985, with the price of crude still strong, Westmin budgeted for a big drilling program. About 70 of these were drilled before the price plummeted in 1986. Westmin now has 310 wells, but 42 percent of these are out of production because of the low prices which still prevail.

The production peak was reached in 1986, at 5120 barrels per day. This dropped in 1987 to the 5000 barrel range. Primary production will again peak in 1989, with thermal production expected to peak in 1994, at 7000 barrels per day, with no substantial drop before the end of the century.

Westmin's real potential for the future lies in making experimental thermal processes work, Watmough told the Association. He explained the processes of steam injection and, steam drive told how the resulting water is cleaned from the recovered oil in Westmin's cleaning plant. The plant, located in the heart of the oilfield on Section 13, had an original capacity of 3000 barrels per day of clean oil, but this was doubled by a 1986 expansion program. The oil leaves the plant by pipeline.

Westmin also has a 10 mile long water pipeline, which serves not only their own steam injection and cleaning units, but the older oil companies in the field. The pipeline and its filtration plant produce 34,000 barrels at present, but can go up to 50,000 barrels. The pipeline is felt to reduce the possibility of river pollution, while substantially reducing truck traffic.

Watmough also commented on future market demands for heavy crude oil. Supply and demand are expected to remain about equal until 1990, when increased supplies will exceed demand. One problem facing the future of heavy oil is the need for sufficient condensate or other

Teachers' strike in second week

By Lorena Lennox
Staff Writer

Students in St. Paul area schools are still vacationing as the teachers' strike continues into its second week with no new negotiations planned between the North Central East School Authorities Association (NCESAA) and the Alberta Teachers' Association (ATA).

The two sides haven't been back to the bargaining table since February 29, the day before the strike began, after which the NCESAA filed a bargaining in-bad faith charge with the Alberta Labour Relations Board (ALRB) saying the teachers' salary increase demands had gone up.

Both sides will be meeting with the ALRB for a hearing today (Wednesday) after which the NCESAA and the ATA may get back to the bargaining table, local ATA president Larry Lambert said.

Although both the ATA and the NCESAA are saying they are ready to get back to bargaining talks neither seems willing to invite the other side to talk.

"Instead of getting down to some hard bargaining, they (the NCESAA members) appear to be more interested in political grandstanding," ATA negotiator Bill Anderson said.

The trustees are hoping that the Labour Relations Board will direct the teachers back to the bargaining table for serious negotiations and an end to the strike, a press release from the County of St. Paul, the Regional High School and the Glen Avon Separate School boards said.

Midgets win Zone 2

Elk Point Windsor Midgets trounced Bon Accord Midgets in a two game, total point series this weekend, to win the zone 2 championship and the right to represent the zone at the Provincial Midget C Tournament in Valleyview, March 25 to 27.

Elk Point won Friday nights game on their home ice by a decisive 9 - 3 margin, which held the team in good stead through a 7 - 4 loss Sunday in Bon Accord, with a two game total score of 13 - 10 for Elk Point.

Friday's game was preceded by a colorful ceremony in which banners honoring the zone winners and provincial competitors of previous years were presented and put on display.

Elk Point Bantam Elks did not share the winning streak. Their jubilation over a 6 - 4 win over Strathcona Hawks Saturday evening turned to resignation Sunday, when the Hawks scored five goals to the Elk one, to take the zone 2 championship with a 9 - 7 total score.

The Elks held on to their lead for 2½ periods of Sunday's exciting game, with Kevin Bates scoring the lone Elk Point goal on a breakaway near the end of the second period. Strathcona tied the series one second short of the midpoint of the third period and pounded in two more in the time remaining, to win the series.

Chamber takes July 1 breakfast

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce has agreed to take over organization and operation of the July 1 Pancake Breakfast, which has been a project of a small group of merchants for the last few years.

Wayne Smith and Beverly Bepalko, whose businesses were part of the group in the 50th street and 51 Avenue area which previously ran the breakfast, have agreed to head the new committee formed to take on the project.

Smith said at last Wednesday's regular Chamber meeting that the breakfast has "grown into a success," with over 800 people served last Canada Day. More merchants have indicated that they wish to become involved in this year's breakfast, which led the group to consider offering the operation to the Chamber. "We want to be part of it, but not all of it," Mrs. Bepalko said. Both agreed that the breakfast is "good for the town and good for July first."

The Chamber's 1988 budget plans were discussed, with committees to determine their needs for the year's projects. Two STEP positions for tourist booth workers will be applied for.

The owner of Elk Point Interiors, Don Brooker, was welcomed to the Chamber. The new business opened March 1, selling floor and wall coverings.

diluant to add to the oil to thin it out for pipeline transport.

Wayne Green of the Energy Resources Conservation Board also addressed the gathering, giving a very informative talk on the prevention of damage to pipelines, which happens all too often when soil is moved without checking for the presence of pipelines. Many lives have been lost and considerable damage done when pipelines are hit by construction equipment. Hand excavation in the area adjacent to lines, and calling pipeline owners to have the lines located are necessary to prevent problems, Green said.

Surface Rights lawyers Julian Bodnar and Peter Johnson were in attendance to report on their limited activities in the surface rights field this year. Both advised farmers to "stick together", Bodnar adding that there is "strength in numbers," and Johnson noting that there is "still room for improvement" in relations between oil companies and the landowners.

Elks out of playoffs

Elk Point Elks lost a valiant attempt to stay in the Centennial League playoffs Wednesday, losing 7-5 to Bonnyville Pontiacs before the largest crowd of the season.

The lone goal of the first period came under two minutes into the game, by Murray Cochrane off an assist by Terry Wozniak, to give the Elks the lead.

The second period belonged entirely to Bonnyville, with four goals sent past Elks netminder Tim Martin by Gilles Choquet, Ron Muller, Roy John and Marcel Sylvestre, giving the Pontiacs a 4-1 lead.

A 7-goal final period saw Dale Gochko, Kerry Loughran, Keith Campbell and Darryl Smith score for the Elks, off assists by Curtis Collins, Willie Lesyk, Terry and John Wozniak and Kerry Loughran, while Garth Campbell, Marcel Sylvestre and Roy John answered for the Pontiacs, bringing the final score to 7-5.

The game was fast paced and feisty, with a total of 68 minutes in minor penalties assessed to the two teams.

Teachers' strike in Week 2

The trustees, who are offering teachers a wage freeze until August, 1989, are still calling for the dispute to be settled through binding arbitration.

In order to help the Grade 12 students, who will be writing Departmental Exams at the end of this school year, the County of St. Paul school board and the St. Paul Regional High School board have offered correspondence courses in the departmental exam subjects.

"We have provided a supervisor with education background and experience in each of our schools and have ordered copies of the departmental exam courses along with key correspondence courses and the students are expected to be in the schools, those that are taking these exams, and following the regular timetable," County Education Superintendent Ted Cabaj said, adding that the students involved are only Grade 12s at this point.

County students began their correspondence courses on Monday and the board is reviewing the situation to see what other options are open to them.

Correspondence lessons are also available for the Grade 12

The lessons are a study guide for the students and will not be used for the students' evaluations at the end of the year.

Regional students are being allowed to study either at home or at the school, where two classrooms have been opened for study.

In the County of Athabasca, which was also in the NCESSA's jurisdiction, a settlement was reached between the school board and the teachers after the board agreed to withdraw from the region.

Athabasca teachers, who received a four and three-quarter per cent salary increase, went back to work at noon on Monday.

In the Elk Point school, 40 student showed up for their correspondence lessons and are studying in the school.

On Monday night, 60 parents with children attending the St. Paul Regional High School, the Glen Avon Separate School and the St. Paul County schools met in an open forum at the Glen Avon School.

The forum was held to find out what the comments and concerns of the parents are regarding the Parents at the meeting said they want their children back in school immediately and that negotiations should begin again and continue until a settlement is reached.

The parents also said they want to have parent representation at the negotiation table because they feel that they are not being dealt with openly by either the ATA or the NCESSA.

One of the questions they asked was why the teachers can't negotiate directly with the respective school boards.

The group of concerned parents plan to meet again on Thursday if a settlement has not been reached.

Editorial

You win some, you lose some

This past weekend, two of our minor hockey teams fought for a berth in their respective provincial tournaments. One made it. One didn't.

The Windsor Midgets will be off to the Provincial Midget C Championships at the end of the month. The Bantam Elks tried their hardest against the much larger Strathcona Hawks team, but tired out in the home stretch.

Both teams, along with the Novice Bullies (who placed fourth in their own tournament) and the Senior Elks (who lost out of the Centennial League semi-finals) deserve our respect and recognition. They have represented Elk Point well in their respective leagues all season, have been good ambassadors for Elk Point and have grown in playing skills and good sportsmanship this winter.

In every game, every tournament, every playoff, every season, only one team can win first place, no matter how hard the others try. Learning to take second, third or fourth place with good grace is a talent all competitors in all sports need to learn. Our local teams seem quite competent at this by now.

Congratulations to the Windsor Midgets and the best of luck in the provincials. And congratulations to the Bantam Elks, the Bullies and the Senior Elks, for giving their competition a real run for their money.

You did well!

IN THIS WINTER, 1966 — There was plenty of snow, and the elevators at Elk Point stood out, framed by the much-smaller-than spruce, as viewed from Mother's back yard.

Where does it all come from?

By Irene Magnusson

It's not too often I am stuck for something to write to you all about, but must confess this week I'm in a bit of a blank frame of mind. Oh - it's not that there is nothing to write about. There are numerous things I could comment on but then others are commenting on them all so freely, and they probably know a lot more about what they are talking of than I do. So I will allow others to say their say about the strikes and wars and Lubicon, etc., while I wander in the times of other days.

I promised myself I'd do it when the first blizzard came along, but it seems blizzards have gone out of style, and so I have to pick on some other reason to get on with this housecleaning binge. I'd like to say it's because my T.V. quit on me last Sunday - right in the middle of the closing ceremonies of the XV Olympics! - so I have nothing to do with my evenings. It probably wouldn't be true, since I don't often sit all evening at the T.V. anyway. I either "do something" or sleep, when I watch T.V. Perhaps it is just that I see the days are getting longer, and soon spring will have sprung - and who would hang around sorting papers and photos once that has happened?

Certainly, not I. So box by box, shelf by shelf, I have been delving into the not-too-distant past, as depicted by my mother's photos, old letters, clippings and such.

It isn't too easy to go through another person's effects, but someone must do it, and she requested it be me. Months have gone by. It's time to get on with the task.

There are so many little square snaps she took over the past 40 or more years, since she got a little camera. A few of those snaps show distant places, her few trips out to British Columbia, to visit family members, a roll or two taken on her one and only trip "home" to England, in 1972, to the place of her birth, to visit the cousins still living in the old town, to see the same old sea splash against those same white cliffs, the stone and brick houses, the church spires, clear in her mind after 73 years.

They visited the cemetery, and she took a picture of her grandfather's tombstone, the massive granite block moss-encrusted, the John Hobden carved deep, along with the 1800's dates. Another 'John Hobden' shows on a later stone in that same old cemetery, while yet another can be seen in Elk Point West Cemetery, and another on a grassy plot in Victoria. Four more generations have come along, but somehow the 'John' was dropped, for fancier names, although there are a few who carry it as a second name.

There are many family members depicted on those tiny squares, as they came 'home' to visit, and many pictures given to her, of babies, grads, weddings, the seashore and the mountains, the city homes, and special happenings. But the bulk of those little snaps are shots of mother's home, inside and out, of her plants, garden, the new paint job, the swing, the view - in a hundred kinds of light, shade, sunsets, sunrises, foggy mornings, dusty days, spring, summer, fall and winter. I'm sure those elevators in Elk Point had no idea they were being captured on film so many times, in so many lights of day!

Dozens of shots, from all angles, depict the flame of the Virginia creeper swarming up the south wall. Other dozens show the delicate weeping willow, in green, or gold of fall, or crisp with frost, which she saw from her kitchen window every day. Around back, where the garden, once a goodly size, flourished sprouting peas and beans and carrots, then annual flowers in all their brilliance, and along the side, the giant peonies, glads, sweetpeas. As the years passed, I see how the mountain ash and birch trees have grown, from tiny whips to towering shade trees, bright with berries (and birds), in all the seasons' shades.

Around back, she captured the growth of the pussywillow, from the twig she got in a Mother's Day bouquet and planted, when she noticed the tiny roots, to a towering shrub, which we had to trim now and then, to keep it out of the power lines. I remember how she always picked a big bouquet of the laden branches, for her table, when the huge furry 'pussies' popped out, early in spring.

There are a few pictures of the lake waters, or Clif and his boat, snapped on some of our years-ago trips to this lake or that, outings she always loved. There are snaps of cars and campers and calves, of clouds, sunsets and sunrises.

Perhaps the most snapped objects in my mother's yard were the towering trees, the great cottonwoods (or black poplars) that shot up from whips the size of your finger, planted

Teachers and wages

Dear Editor:

Wage rollbacks are common but teachers cried "foul" when asked to take a six percent rollback in wages. A drop in farm prices, in business income, or oil prices, a high vacancy rate in motels or apartment blocks are all an income rollbacks and many have had to declare bankruptcy.

In September 1987 truckers hauling gravel for the County of St. Paul and the school bus contractors were asked to take an income rollback, this being three cents a mile for the buses.

Some contractors cried, "shut down the buses, withhold our services". Saner heads prevailed and we accepted the rollback for one year. We hoped for a mild winter so our fuel consumption would be down and a minimum of breakdowns so we wouldn't feel it too much. We did not want to work a hardship on students, parents, or teachers and viewing teaching as an essential service like nursing, our buses were rolling when school opened in September.

Welcome, Oilmen

A hearty welcome to all the curlers taking part in the Fifth Annual Oilmen's Bonspiel this weekend.

The coming of the oil industry to Elk Point changed a sleepy farm community into a growing and vital town. At the height of the boom, facilities and services were stretched to the limit and our town prospered. When oil prices plummeted and the action in the oil patch ground to a halt, many of the newcomers stayed to wait for better times. They must have decided they liked it here, even when prosperity waned.

We have found many new friends and have developed a much more progressive spirit because of the additional population oil has brought to Elk Point. The oil industry has become part of our lives.

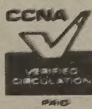

Enjoy your visit to Elk Point and good luck in the bonspiel.

On February 25, the teachers were offered a wage freeze which was up six percent from the rollback presented. This they should have happily accepted without shutting the system down. To strike and not allow others to take up the vacant positions is a very dirty tactic.
Immediately a hardship is placed on students, parents, bus drivers, and counties. The bus contractors are taking a further rollback because of loss of days. Some parents are making plans to send their children to relatives in other schools.
There seems to be a "I don't give a damn about you" attitude as long as I get what I want. This was displayed by the striking nurses. Placards that say "we care" should have two more words, "about myself".
A strike brings a lot of division and hard feelings in a community. It is a war with both sides justifying their position.
As we move around the community we hear comments like, "How much do they really need in order to be satisfied?" "In 1989 they will be back for more." "They have no office to rent or a secretary to pay." "I've been at my job for ten years and am no where near a teacher's starting wage". "They work only two hundred days in a year". "They should all be shut out and replaced", etc., etc. "Teaching should be an essential service".

If a county's payroll is too high it could eliminate some of the $40,000 a year teachers and put in some $24,000 teachers. Six of these would constitute a saving of $100,000 a year. No one should say that they are indispensable, they cannot lose their job, they cannot be fired or replaced, that their position is secure. No one of us has any kind of security for health, life, job or income.
I hope, like everyone else, even teachers, because they are losing wages, that the schools will soon be open, buses rolling, and the education system back to normal. However, ill feelings because of the strike will linger on and the power of the unions (the tail wagging the dog) will continue to be a puzzlement to many.

Medals for skaters

During the last month, members of the Figure Skating Club were actively involved in competitive skating and brought proud accomplishments home to Elk Point.

Winterskate - North, a "B" division competition for skaters from northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories, was held in Barrhead on Feb. 4-6, 1988. Christina Estey represented our club well in the Preliminary Ladies category but did not place high enough in the runoffs to advance to the finals. Tobey Conrad, also in the Preliminary Ladies category, took a gold medal in the runoffs and placed third in the finals. Katharina Ludlage, in the Pre-Novice category, placed third after the compulsory figures and skated an excellent free-style program to place third in the finals and bring home a bronze medal. Katharina Ludlage and Tobey Conrad now advance to the provincial Winterskate competition in Leduc on March 11-13, 1988.

Kitscoty hosted the annual zone competition on February 20, 1988. Four of our skaters competed here, and four medals were brought home. In the pre-preliminary division Charlene Anderson earned a silver medal for an outstanding performance in her first competition. In the Juvenile Ladies category Elizabeth Ludlage and Tobey Conrad skated gold medal performances in their divisions and Shauna Loughran brought home a silver medal.

The dedication and hard work of our skaters and their coaches certainly have been rewarded this year. The figure skating club wishes Katharina Ludlage and Tobey Conrad good luck in the provincials, which is the final competition of the year and invites everyone to their carnival on Friday, March 18, 1988.

Hi! If any of you are involved with Youth Clubs or Organizations and would be interested in your group operating the Drop-in Centre for a short period of about two months, please give me a call.

Thank you to all those who came out to the Mayor's Dinner Theatre and supported our Drop-in Centre project. We had a good turn out and even made some money. A special thanks to the staff and management at the Hilltop Cafe who put a lot of time and effort into preparing the delicious meal, AADAC for a grant of $200.00 and for doing a great job with tickets in St. Paul, the Elks and the Royal Purple for the use of hall and kitchen, Dave's Pizza, Wong's Restaurant, Empress Restaurant, Drop-in Centre.

BYRON MANN

Dear Bonspieler:

The Town of Elk Point gives a hearty welcome to all the curlers in the Fifth Annual Elk Point Oilmen's Bonspiel.

Every year it becomes harder and harder to improve the bonspiel and social activities, yet this year promises to be the biggest and best Oilmen's Bonspiel ever. The efforts of Dave Slaght, his bonspiel committee and all the generous sponsors deserve our warmest applause. Thanks for making this bonspiel a huge success.

My personal best wishes to all the curlers for a successful and enjoyable bonspiel.

Good luck

Oilmen support minor hockey

AMOCO DONATES TO MINOR HOCKEY — Armand Houle of Amoco Petroleum's Company Ltd. presents a five hundred dollar cheque to Glenn Harms, president of Elk Point and District Minor Hockey Association. The money will be used by minor hockey to help maintain its hockey program for the rising number of minor players in Elk Point. Harms explained that the dollars came at a time when the Association finds itself raising between $75 and $100 per minor hockey player. He added that the Association greatly appreciates the community support shown by Amoco.

at the Library

Our new comic book exchange is proving to be a big success. In order to use this comic book exchange, bring in 2 comics in good condition and receive one in return. We are now in the process of cataloguing the new music cassettes. This is a very time consuming job, but hopefully they will be available for circulation soon.

Some of the new book cassettes for Children are:

"Danny & the Dinosaur" by Syd Hoff

"Come Back Amelia Bedelia" by Peggy Parish

"Lyle, Lyle, Crocodile" by Bernard Waber

"Angela's Airplane & Mud Puddle" by Robert Munsch

"Arthur's Funny Money" by Lillian Hoban

ADULT BOOKS

"Midways, Judges, and Smooth Tongued Fakirs" by David C. Jones, an illustrated story of County Fairs in the Prairie West.

Four more new books in the pioneering series by Janette Oke are:

"The Winds of Autumn", "Love's Unfolding Dream", "Once Upon a Summer," and "Love's Unending Legacy".

Also by the bestselling author of strange and chilling tales V.C. Andrews the "Garden of Shadows".

This book "Mart Kenney and his Western Gentlemen" will bring back memories for some of our patrons.

"The Best from Alberta History" edited by Hugh Dempsey brings the province's past to life.

For all the outdoor enthusiasts "Going Wild", recipes from the Great Canadian Outdoors.

Tulliby Lake 4-H speakoff tonight

By Elisa Gibbard
Club Reporter

It's that time again. The Public Speeches are March 9 in the Tulliby Lake Communiplex at 7 p.m. sharp. Anyone interested is welcome to come and listen.

At our February meeting Jerome Chamberlain and Jason Parke did a demonstration on "how to do a demonstration"! Wanetta Franklin told us about the curling in Islay.

The crafts club had quite a full meeting. They made macrame wall hangers. They also worked on designs and special ideas for the 4-H banner that is to be put up in the Tulliby Lake Communiplex.

We will still be having our regular meeting March the 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Heinsburg 4-H news

By Stacey LaBoucane
The Heinsburg 4-H multi-club held its February meeting at the LaBoucane residence on Feb. 15 at 7 p.m.; the meeting was called to order by Darren Skolarchuk, club president. 4-H pledge was led by June LaBoucane. Roll call was answered by members telling how their project was going, seems like both the beef and computers are doing well.

Some topics of discussion were, water slides, skiing, skating, tobogganing for pee wees, a judging/grooming workshop, club achievement day and district achievement day.

The pee wees tobogganing was set for Feb. 20 at the Tucker's. A skating party for Feb. 21 was cancelled due to poor ice conditions at the Heinsburg rink. On Feb. 28 we traveled to Lloydminster for a day of water slides at the Imperial 400.

We plan on going to Grand Centre for skiing on Mar. 12 if snow conditions permit. We also plan on going to the judging/grooming workshop at Myrnam on April 16.

We have set our beef achievement day for June 11. The Tulliby Lake 4-H club has invited us to a dance on Mar. 18. We would also like to thank the Elk Point Club for inviting us to the volleyball tournament in Jan. We had a great time.

By Shirley Osinchuk

They won!! On Thursday, Feb. 25, the Junior High girls basketball team beat the J.R. Robson team 36 to 12, in the County semi-finals. Leah-Ann Grant scored 20 points.

Then on Saturday, the 27, the (Grade 9) A team won the Kitscoty Tournament. They met and defeated Kitscoty, Lloydminster's E.S. Laird, and Bishop Lloyd from Lloydminster. At the half time mark of the first game, Shannon Convey was chosen as Clandonald's representative for the free throw. She sunk nine out of ten attempts, and took home the trophy at the end of the tournament.

The B team did not do as well on the scoreboard, but gained a lot of playing time and experience in games against Bishop Lloyd and Lashburn. They lost both games.

The Junior High boys made it to the semi-finals, but were beaten by J.R. Robson.

In the County finals on Wednesday, March 2, the girls team won 19-12 over Kitscoty.

Janet Matyaschuk would like to hear from you right away, if you are interested in a "Greenhouse Plant Production" course. MLA Doug Cherry met with the directors and executive of the Lloydminster Progressive Conservative Association on Saturday, March 5. Of interest to our area was his announcement that Dewberry School will undergo modernization and have an addition built. Rivercourse School and one Lloydminster school are also slated for modernization.

Transportation and senior citizen grants are not out, so he could not say whether Dewberry and Derwent will get the seniors' complexes that they have requested.

The Feed Grain Adjustment Program will continue until 1989. That is a $13.00 per tonne payment for feed grain produced for consumption within the province.

Although abortion is a federal issue, Alberta's policy has not changed, except to demand a second doctor's opinion, in place of the abortion committee that has been abolished.

Alberta will not fund abortion clinics.

Concerning the proposed ethanol plant, there is such a huge amount of money involved, ($80 million), that Peter Elzinga is waiting for the report of a private consulting firm, and also waiting for E.E.L. to come forth with the dollars and the firm contracts necessary to ensure that there will be a strong market for the product.

Pets and owners visit long term hospital patients

By Irene Magnusson

Ten patients in the Elk Point Hospital Extended Care wing received a visit from a group of unusual visitors last Monday, February 22, 1988, when Barrabas, Dixie and Sir Lancelot came to call.

Accompanied by their 'owners', the large black Labrador, Barrabas, with Karen Reed in tow, the bright-eyed black poodle-terrier Dixie, leading Linda Piotrowski, and curly-grey Peke-a-poo Sir Lancelot (nick-named Lance) leading Hospital Auxiliary member Hughie Krucik on his leash, and three canine visitors tried to bring a little cheer to the residents.

The idea had been put forward by Caroline Onusko, activities director for Extended Care patients, at the last Auxiliary meeting. Long-term hospital patients often have little contact with the ordinary little facets of living, such as having pets around. It was felt a bit of contact with some household pets would have a stimulating effect.

As with any situation, some enjoyed the experience more than others. Although all the dogs were very well behaved and not boisterous, the patients were at first reluctant to touch them, but soon heads were being patted, backs stroked, and one patient attempted a bit of a "bark session" in order to strike up a conversation with the 11-year old big black Lab.

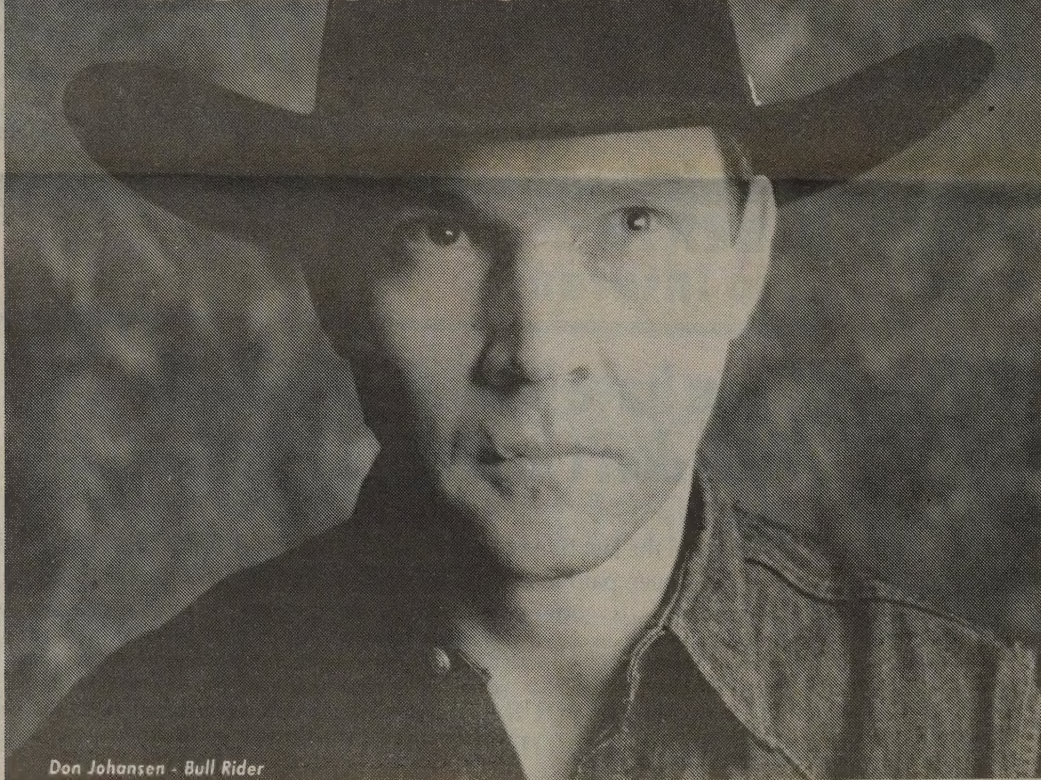

All these dogs have been in Obedience Training Class, which Karen Reed conducts in Elk Point. All were on leashes, but were very well-trained and quiet, and as the group sat around and talked about the pets, a few more hands were extended to touch and pat and stroke the furry heads.

The group agreed to bring their pets again, perhaps some cats, too, 3rd Mondays of each month, if that works out well.

An exhibition of the Dog Obedience Class will be arranged, if possible.

The visiting canines were hosted in the meeting room, where many activities with the Extended Care residents takes place.

MARCH 23-26 NORTHLANDS AGRICOM, EDMONTON

Health Unit helps explain facts of life

It is a fact that parents are the primary and potentially the most effective sexuality educators of their children. Yet, because of the sensitivity of the topic and maybe because we just haven't had a lot of experience in talking about sexuality to others, let alone our children, it's an area of family life that is troubled by any number of fears or inhibitions.

To help parents with this dilemma, the North Eastern Alberta Health Unit has developed a Parent Resource Library containing information on a variety of sexuality issues that parents may want to know about. That could include simply getting more information on how to answer your daughter's questions about menstruation. Someone else may find it hard to answer such questions as "How does a baby get inside a mommy's tummy?" Finally, we may just be unsure of how much it is appropriate to say to children at different age levels.

If you would like some reading material, some audio-visuals to watch with your children, or just someone to check your ideas with, please contact your local Health Unit office and ask to speak to one of the health nurses or call the St. Paul office at 645-3396 and ask for Colleen.
